

A collage of mechanical gears, a keyboard, and binary code. The background is a mix of warm tones, primarily browns and oranges. In the upper left, there are several keyboard keys, including one with the letter 'W' and another with 'C'. Below the keys, there's a grid of binary code (0s and 1s). In the lower left, there are several interlocking gears of different sizes. The overall aesthetic is technical and industrial.

Your Visionary Tool from Gallagher Bassett

At Gallagher Bassett, we understand that success in any industry requires vision and advanced tools you can use to gain insight and awareness. Fast and easy access to reliable, highly current information is essential to make intelligent risk management decisions that impact your strength, profitability, and longevity. That's why we've put this information a quick click away at risxfacs.com, your portal to our premier claims and loss control information management system.

Using standard web browser software, risxfacs.com allows you to analyze areas of your highest risk and cost so you can develop programs to eliminate and reduce them. With risxfacs.com you can readily...

Go Online Anytime

View every detail of your claims data on 24/7 basis.

Access Information from Anywhere

Conveniently and easily tap into your claims information from any properly configured PC in the world.

Customize Information to Your Individual Needs

Retrieve as much or as little information as you want, in any report format you want, whenever you want it.

Get Instantaneous Software Updates

System changes and application enhancements are made automatically and are available every time you access risxfacs.com.

Rest Assured About Security

Your applications are secured through the most advanced data encryption and login password protection available.

More than Revolutionary, it's Evolutionary, Too

As a world leader in risk management services, we know that maintaining an edge requires the ability to adapt as the world around you changes. This is why we are particularly proud of the evolution of risxfacs.com and the way we have been able to easily adapt our system to meet our clients' changing needs.

Since its inception in April of 2000, we have invested heavily and worked diligently to expand and enhance the system. We've listened to our clients and have incorporated a number of their suggestions on how we can better enhance the functionality of our system. The end result...a whole new realm of applications and solutions to help you manage and master your risk in a challenging world and an economic environment where there's more of a connection between online and your bottom-line than ever before.

Staking a Claim to Unique Distinctions

No other online claims management information system is this technologically advanced, comprehensive, vitally current, or flexible.

No one else offers such reporting functionality with the ability to leverage the speed and power of the Internet to:

Report Claims Faster and More Cost Effectively with Our "First Reporting" Application

Report workers compensation, auto liability, and general liability claims online to save time and increase profits.

View 18 Months of Rolling Claim History Through Our "Monthly Reports" Application

Gain instant day or night access to standard and non-standard reports; go online and investigate the history of a claim as far back as 18 months. Have your reports sent to you monthly via your e-mail address.

Utilize Our Online Real-Time "I-Link" Reporting Application

Obtain candid, real-time snapshots of your claims information any time with no cut off period through several preformatted reports; plug in your own parameters and get a vital report back you can use to reduce loss and save money.

Know About Reports the Instant They're Available Through SELEX-FACS®

Receive immediate notification electronically the instant your ad hoc report requests are complete; detach and archive reports for future use; schedule your most frequent reports to run automatically by using our auto scheduler feature.

Offering New Applications that Make this System “Friendlier” than Ever risxfacs.com client-service enhancements have been coming fast and furiously. These advances are all about comfort, ease of use, better control, and increased simplicity.

Forgot your password? Hit a button and it's e-mailed to you in seconds.

Have a question? Before you pick up the phone, check our FAQs that can save a lot of time and trouble.

Wondering whether we have or have not performed according to your program requirements? Go online and check out your service instructions you originally developed.

Worried that you might not have enough funds set aside to resolve a claim? Use our new Alerts application to set a reserve threshold and ensure that you'll be notified electronically and automatically the instant that threshold is reached.

Want to easily locate a managed care provider in your network without searching multiple sites? Count on our new Client Corner application and its ability to consolidate multiple sources into one. Soon you'll be able to use Client Corner as a one-stop launch pad into other sites that affect your risk management program.

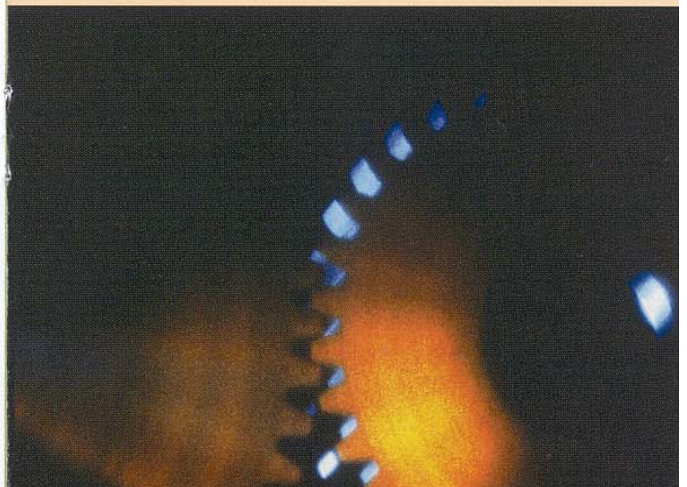

risxfacs.com offers many more features of great practical value. For example, our Loss View application allows you to view losses submitted through our 1-800 service before they become claims. Utilize this data to create a predictive model of behavior. If a trend emerges, you can implement programs that can help prevent losses and costly claims from ever occurring.
